ABOUT SATELLITE SCREENS

The Sundance Institute's commitment to discovering and supporting emerging independent artists includes developing new audiences for independent film. Vital to this mission is a thriving cinema culture, accessible to all, where filmmakers and audiences can watch and talk about movies together. With these values in mind, we are once again teaming up with mission-driven art house cinemas to bring the Sundance Film Festival experience into local communities across the country. Each of this year's chosen Satellite Screens will introduce a curated selection of the 2022 Festival lineup to their audiences during the Festival's final weekend, January 28–30.

LIVE VIRTUAL PANEL: MITSKI MUSIC VIDEOS WITH ZIA ANGER AND MAEGAN HOUANG

Thursday, January 27, 7:00 p.m. CST
Online

Music videos have always been ripe for deep introspection into the way they meld the visions of many artists, but particularly the musician and the director. Indie rock musician, Mitski, has released two recent music videos, "Working for the Knife" (Directed by Zia Anger) and "The Only Heartbreaker" (Directed by Maegan Houang), ahead of her next studio album, Laurel Hell. Directed by filmmakers with incredible, specific visions, these collaborations led to some of the most thrilling cinema released in the past year. Filmmakers (and Indie Memphis alumni) Zia Anger and Maegan Houang will explore the process of their collaborations with Mitski in a live conversation moderated by Indie Memphis Programmer Kayla Myers.

ALICE

DIRECTOR/SCREENWRITER: Krystin Ver Linden; PRODUCER: Peter Lawson
U.S. DRAMATIC COMPETITION

Alice (Keke Palmer) spends her days enslaved on a rural Georgia plantation restlessly yearning for freedom. After a violent clash with plantation owner Paul (Jonny Lee Miller), Alice flees through the neighboring woods and stumbles onto the unfamiliar sight of a highway, soon discovering that the year is actually 1973. Rescued on the roadside by a disillusioned Black activist named Frank (Common), Alice uncovers the lies that have kept her enslaved and the promise of Black liberation.

In her debut feature, writer-director Krystin Ver Linden spins a modern liberation fable that is equal parts earthy Southern Gothic and soulful Blaxploitation. Inspired by true accounts of Black Americans who were kept in peonage for more than 100 years after the end of slavery, Alice is an audacious mix of grim historical fact and exceptional fiction. Moving from a purgatorial plantation overgrown with Spanish moss to the lively landscape of urban Savannah, Ver Linden traces Alice's breathless journey down the rabbit hole and into the turbulent wonderland of the post-Civil Rights South.

EMERGENCY

DIRECTOR: Carey Williams; SCREENWRITER: K.D. Dávila; PRODUCERS: Marty Bowen, Isaac Klausner & John Fischer
U.S. DRAMATIC COMPETITION

Straight-A college student Kunle and his laid-back best friend Sean are about to have the most epic night of their lives. Determined to be the first Black students to complete their school's frat party legendary tour, the friends strap in for their ultimate assignment, Solo cups in hand. But a quick pit stop at home alters their plans when they find a white girl passed out on the living room floor. Faced with the risks of calling the police under life-threatening optics, Kunle, Sean, and their Latino roommate Carlos must find a way to de-escalate the situation before it's too late.

Two-time Sundance alum Carey Williams (R#J, 2021) makes his U.S. Dramatic Competition debut with Emergency, the darkly comedic and wildly hard-hitting feature version of his short by the same name (a Special Jury Award winner in 2018). Bringing KD Dávila's sharp and layered writing to life through an incredibly talented breakout cast, Williams hazes us with a timely and biting satire in which racial dynamics unmask a world so absurd that it could only be real.

EVERY DAY IN KAIMUKĪ

DIRECTOR: Alika Tengan; SCREENWRITERS: Naz Kawakami & Alika Tengan; PRODUCERS: Jesy Odio, Chapin Hall, Alika Tengan, & Naz Kawakami

NEXT

Naz, a cynical and charismatic 20-something, has spent his entire life in tranquil O'ahu, Hawai'i, skateboarding with his friends and hosting a nightly radio show where he spotlights emerging musicians. When his girlfriend, Sloane, nabs the chance to move to bustling New York, Naz begins preparing for their big move, planning every detail down to his cat's absurd flight plan. Even when dreaming about what life outside the island might look like, however, Naz wonders whether uprooting his world is the right decision, and if anywhere will ever really feel like home when he's always been an eternal outsider.

Alika Tengan strongly impresses with his pensive and lyrical first feature, evoking the urban and adamantly local Hawaiian landscape of Kaimukī. Anchored by Naz Kawakami's unassuming lead performance and steeped in the honest messiness of millennial adulthood, Every Day in Kaimuki is a slice-of-life, kaleidoscopic exploration of what it means to leave everything you've ever known behind.

FREE CHOL SOO LEE

DIRECTORS: Julie Ha & Eugene Yi; PRODUCERS: Su Kim, Jean Tsien, Sona Jo, Julie Ha & Eugene Yi

U.S. DOCUMENTARY COMPETITION

On June 3, 1973, a man was murdered in a busy intersection of San Francisco's Chinatown as part of an ongoing gang war. Chol Soo Lee, a 20-year-old Korean immigrant who had previous run-ins with the law, was arrested and convicted based on flimsy evidence and the eyewitness accounts of white tourists who couldn't distinguish between Asian features. Sentenced to life in prison, Chol Soo Lee would spend years fighting to survive behind bars before journalist K.W. Lee took an interest in his case. The intrepid reporter's investigation would galvanize a first-of-its-kind pan-Asian American grassroots movement to fight for Chol Soo Lee's freedom, ultimately inspiring a new generation of social justice activists.

Revisiting this pivotal yet largely forgotten story, filmmakers Eugene Yi and Julie Ha draw from a rich archive as well as firsthand accounts of those inspired to come to Lee's defense. But even as Free Chol Soo Lee explores this miscarriage of justice, the film also reveals the man behind the cause, and the complex legacy — and human cost — of becoming the symbol of a movement.

LA GUERRA CIVIL

DIRECTOR: Eva Longoria Bastón;
PRODUCERS: Eva Longoria Bastón, Grant Best, Bernardo Ruiz, Ben Spector & Andrea Cordoba

PREMIERES

For Mexican and Mexican American communities, boxing is more than a sport. From ring walk-ins to trunks, opponents take full advantage of the theatrical spectacle, narrating their histories and the stories of their individual fanbases. In 1996, Oscar De La Hoya, the charismatic golden boy from East LA, challenged Mexican-born boxing legend Julio César Chávez in what was billed as the “ultimate glory” fight. Mexicans on both sides of the border were forced to choose their favorite champ: the record-holding immigrant from humble beginnings, or the younger and more marketable Olympian born in the U.S. These rivals felt the pressure to prove their athletic superiority, while the fans’ choice of champion revealed the type of Mexican they aspired to be.

La Guerra Civil features detailed archival footage and enthusiastic interviews with Chávez and De La Hoya to illuminate a story that transcends language, heritage, and interests. Director Eva Longoria Bastón’s high-energy documentary debut exudes authenticity and heart as it digs deep into the cultural significance of one of the biggest sports moments of the 1990s.

MARTE UM (MARS ONE)

DIRECTOR/SCREENWRITER: Gabriel Martins;
PRODUCERS: Thiago Macêdo Correia, André Novais Oliveira, Gabriel Martins & Maurilio Martins

WORLD CINEMA: DRAMATIC COMPETITION

The Martins family are optimistic dreamers, quietly leading their lives in the margins of a major Brazilian city following the disappointing inauguration of a far-right extremist president. A lower-middle-class Black family, they feel the strain of their new reality as the political dust settles. Tércia, the mother, reinterprets her world after an unexpected encounter leaves her wondering if she’s cursed. Her husband, Wellington, puts all of his hopes into the soccer career of their son, Deivinho, who reluctantly follows his father’s ambitions despite secretly aspiring to study astrophysics and colonize Mars. Meanwhile, their older daughter, Eunice, falls in love with a free-spirited young woman and ponders whether it’s time to leave home.

Writer-director Gabriel Martins weaves a tender and uplifting tapestry of a Brazilian family whose affection for each other is palpable in every frame, mining his delightful cast for authentic performances brimming with humor and charm. Delicately balancing its characters as they find themselves and their country at a crossroads, Marte Um (Mars One) invites us to dream beyond the stars.

HONK FOR JESUS. SAVE YOUR SOUL.

DIRECTOR/SCREENWRITER: Adamma Ebo;
PRODUCERS: Daniel Kaluuya, Adanne Ebo,
Rowan Riley, Amandla Crichlow, Jesse Burgum
& Matthew Cooper

PREMIERES

As the proud first lady of a Southern Baptist megachurch, Trinitie Childs carries immense responsibility on her shoulders. Her church, Wander To Greater Paths, once served a congregation in the tens of thousands, but after a scandal involving her husband, Pastor Lee-Curtis Childs, forced the church to close temporarily, Trinitie is struggling to manage the aftermath. Now Trinitie and Lee-Curtis must rebuild their congregation and reconcile their faith by all means necessary to make the biggest comeback that commodified religion has ever seen.

Filmmaking power duo the Ebo twins (writer-director Adamma Ebo, producer Adanne Ebo) make their feature film debut in this adaptation of their previous short film of the same name. Partially shot in faux-documentary style, this lively satire on for-profit religion explores both the on-camera desperation in image rebranding and the hard truths that fester behind the scenes. The humor is big and biting in both writing and performance, reaching lofty heights with Regina Hall and Sterling K. Brown in lead roles.

SIRENS

DIRECTOR: Rita Baghdadi; PRODUCERS: Rita Baghdadi & Camilla Hall

WORLD CINEMA: DOCUMENTARY COMPETITION

True to their name, Slave to Sirens — the first and only all-woman thrash metal band in the Middle East — are utterly magnetic. Amid a backdrop of political unrest and the heartbreaking unraveling of Beirut, five bandmates form a beacon of expression, resistance, and independence. Director Rita Baghdadi follows founders and guitarists Lilas Mayassi and Shery Bechara as their tenderness, and sometimes bitterness, for one another grows in ways both unexpected and deeply moving. Joined by vocalist Maya Khairallah, bassist Alma Doumani, and drummer Tatyana Boughaba, these women negotiate their emotional journeys through young adulthood in tumultuous circumstances with grace, raw passion, and a ferocious commitment to their art. Their grit is tested as they grapple with the complexities of friendship, sexuality, and the destruction around them.

Sirens is Rita Baghdadi's third documentary feature. Acting as director, producer, and cinematographer, her singular vision is gentle yet emotionally powerful. Her film and its incredible subjects are inspirations to all who seek light through darkness.

CHILLY AND MILLY

DIRECTOR/PRODUCER: William David Caballero;
PRODUCER: Elaine Del Valle

a/perture cinema, Amherst Cinema, Digital Gym Cinema, mama.film, and Northwest Film Forum only.

Exploring the director's father's chronic health problems, as a diabetic with kidney failure, and his mother's role as his eternal caretaker, Chilly and Milly is a combination of 3D-modeled/composited characters, with cinéma vérité scenes from an autobiographical documentary shot over 13 years ago.

F^CK '€M R!GHT B@ÇK

DIRECTOR: Harris Doran; SCREENWRITERS: Harris Doran & Emmanuel 'DDm' Williams;
PRODUCERS: Doris Casap, Harris Doran, James Burkhalter & Haley Geffen

ABOUT SUNDANCE INSTITUTE

Founded by Robert Redford in 1981 with the mission of fostering new voices in American storytelling, the nonprofit Sundance Institute is a champion and curator of stories for the stage and screen. Today, our staff of 180 employees works year-round to offer 25 residential labs, grants exceeding $3 million, and ongoing mentorships that support more than 900 artists each year. Each January, the Sundance Film Festival brings artists and audiences together for the premieres of groundbreaking work, and year-round, the Institute hosts a variety of public programs to amplify original voices, inspire new ideas, and rally our community in support of independent storytelling.

We believe that a story driven by an individual, authentic voice can awaken new ideas that have the power to delight and entertain, push creative boundaries, spark new levels of empathy and understanding, and even lead to social change. We support independent storytellers and advance the impact of their work in the world.
